

BURN LESS COAL—HAVE MORE HEAT

GLOBE RANGE BURNERS will do both, because of their scientific construction. The lower part of the "down" flue extends from the bottom base-plate to the top of the ash pit. Then, three flues in the back are three-fourths exposed. This distinctive GLOBE construction gives you twice the direct heat radiation of any ordinary base burner, at less cost! Don't take our say-so. Come in and see for yourself. Rigidly inspect a GLOBE RANGE BURNER. That's all we ask.

Other products of the Globe Stove & Range Co., Kokomo, Ind., are: Globe Steel and Cast Range, Base Burners, Soft Coal Heaters and Warm Air Furnaces.

RANDOM RECOLLECTIONS.

In those days of the wagon shows, the circus people did not carry with them their kitchen and dining tents, as the railroad shows do at the present period. All of the performers and others connected with the show would take their meals at the hotels in the different towns visited by them, and circus day certainly was the busy day at the old Exchange Hotel, on Front street, and at the old Shepherd House, corner of Indiana and Louisiana avenues. Even the horses, ponies, and trick mules were fed and taken care of at the livery stables in the town.

As at the present day, the "mammoth and magnificent, glorious and glittering galaxy of stupendous splendors," otherwise known as the daily free street parade, was one of the big attractions of circus day, and also at the present time the ever present small boy was right on the job, and from the time the "colossal column" left the show grounds until its return there he was either right close up to the band wagon or within a few feet of the elephant, and if by chance he was asked to put on "show clothes" and lead one of the Shetland ponies, he was in the seventh heaven of delight. In one of these street parades given by Dan Rice's show the band wagon was drawn by forty horses, and the driver thereof certainly did have his hands full—of lines. The bands as a rule, though not as large as those of the modern circus, were very good.

The largest elephant with any of the shows that exhibited in our town was called "Empress," and was with J. E. Cooper & Co.'s shows. The posters said the "big lady" was 12 feet high, by actual measurement. But she had shrunk somewhat before she reached our town. The smallest elephant was "Baby Annie," a dwarf only about four feet high. The best trained elephants were a pair called "Romeo and Juliet." In those old days the elephant keepers sometimes had difficulty in getting their charges out of town, for it is well known that these beasts are very cautious when there is a bridge to cross, and several of them did not like the looks of the old covered wooden toll bridge that for so many years spanned the river between Perrysburg and Maumee, and they had to be taken further up stream to a point where they could ford the river.

The performances given by the early circuses were equally as good, though not so varied, as at the present time. The clowns were as comical, though not so numerous, and in addition to amusing the audience they also entertained with popular songs such as "Down in a Coal Mine," "Up in a Balloon, Boys," "Pat Malloy." And in these days, there being but one ring, the spectators could get a splendid view of the entire performance. Also the peanuts, popcorn, and red lemonade were as good, also as popular, as at the present time. Then, also, would the "gentlemanly ushers," so-called, make their way through the audience, selling tickets for the grand concert which was sure to follow the regular performance, in which all of the "best talent" was to participate. In fact, the schemes to separate the merry populace from their money were about as numerous and as varied as at the present day. But with it all, the performances were equally enjoyed by the grown-ups as by the children. And the average boy circuses without its creating within him an ambition to become a circus performer had something wrong in his makeup. Within a few days after a circus had been in the Burg there would be a trapeze or "turning pole" erected in the yard or barn of nearly every family that had boys in it. Sure we had a "turning pole" in our yard, on which my big brother was the star performer. The best the writer could ever do on the pole was to "skin the cat," and after getting a few good hard bumps on the head in trying to turn "cart wheels" and walk on my hands, I clearly saw that as a circus performer my fate was sealed, and that I was doomed to make easy money in an entirely different branch of the show business for a few years.

Of all the boys born and brought up in the Burg there is only one to my knowledge who achieved this ambition, and that was Willie West, son of Emmet West, the popular hardware salesman. Young West became a really first-class slack-wire artist and trapeze performer, and for a number of ## Pullman or Freight?

No one would think of riding in a freight car if he could enjoy the comfort of a big, comfortable easy riding Pullman parlor car.

So with automobiles. Most of the popular priced cars ride like freight cars. This is due to the old fashioned type of spring.
